The Student Readiness Symposiums are designed to equip attendees with engaging, dynamic practices that foster a culture of post-secondary possibilities, and maximize student-advising efforts. This event will feature strategies to assist in a smooth transition to college and minimize the risks of the "summer melt." The format of the symposiums will create a collaborative atmosphere intended to draw out the collective wisdom of participants and presenters. Come with your questions about advising and be prepared to share what works for your students.
