Superintendent Ybarra to attend Think Make Create launch Tuesday

(BOISE) – Superintendent of Public Instruction Sherri Ybarra will visit the Caldwell YMCA Tuesday afternoon for the official launch of Idaho’s Think Make Create Labs, a collaborative partnership supporting STEM education for rural and underserved communities in Idaho.

STEM education and serving rural and remote communities are key issues for Superintendent Ybarra, and she looks forward to seeing one of the TMC labs in action Tuesday. The event starts at 3:30 p.m. at the Caldwell Y, 3720 S Indiana Ave.

The compact Think Make Create units were built in part by Idaho secondary students to become pop-up, hands-on activity centers for K-8 hands-on learning. Organizers estimate 8,000 Idaho students will use the labs during summer camps and through after-school programs during the labs’ first year.
