IDAHO PREVENTION AND SUPPORT CONFERENCE

The 31st Annual Idaho Prevention and Support Conference (IPSC) is scheduled for April 16-18, 2025 at the beautiful Sun Valley Resort just outside of Ketchum, Idaho. IPSC provides professional development that focuses on innovation, best practices, collective problem-solving, and motivation techniques to effectively support historically underserved students.

Conference attendees will include K-12 teachers, counselors, and administrators committed to creating safe and supportive learning environments for Idaho's students.

This year's conference will include the following:

LEARNING TRACKS (THURSDAY): Learning tracks provide attendees the opportunity to learn about a specialized topic in-depth through the course of a full day of sessions on curated topics.

- School Culture & Safety
- Substance Misuse Prevention
- Suicide Prevention
- Student Health

OPEN SESSIONS (FRIDAY): Open sessions will allow attendees the freedom to determine which of the provided topics are best suited to their needs.

CONFERENCE PLAYBOOK: Consider this a journal for conference attendees. The IPSC Playbook will include conference information, guided reflection for school teams, and space for participants to take notes and make plans for implementing what they learn during the conference.
